"Col." Smith Was Caned.

When County Commissioner Josiah Smith, of Weston, retired from office Saturday he was presented with a fine gold-headed cane by his associates in office. Mr. Smith has served the county faithfully for six years and leaves behind him an official record that is worthy of emulation.

The village of Perrysburg has answered the suit of William Schlect and Lida M. Hanson for damages for changing the grade of Louisiana ave., in that village, and opening up a ditch in front of the property so that the water was not carried off the street. The village wants the case dismissed.—Sentinel.

Mr. Arthur Wilson, conductor for the T. B. G. & S. Traction Co., met with a painful accident says the Tribune. While trying to unfasten the trolley pole which was fastened in the wires at Portage, he took hold of one of the wires by mistake and he received such a shock that he was thrown from the car and three of his toes broken. He will be unable to be about for some time.

Fortunately he was not burned by the wire. He came to his home in Bowling Green on the next car north where he is resting comfortably.

The funeral was held from the Hobart church, Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Frank Harvey officiated in the pulpit taking for his text "Work while it is day for night cometh when no men worketh." WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago, discovered some years ago how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for Piles. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases, DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine. Sold by Bowers & Comstock.

STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE

Foul Play Suspected in Case of Wood County Man.

The case of the disappearance of William Stephens, a young farmer who lived with his mother on a fine farm north of B. G., has been placed in the hands of the sheriff and a search for the young man has been systematically begun. Stephens disappeared from his home last week Tuesday, but though alarmed over his absence his mother contented herself with inquiries about the neighborhood. When he left home he said that he was going over to the baseball grounds near his home and would be back soon. He has not returned since and foul play is feared. He is not known to have an enemy, and so far as known had but little money with him the night he disappeared. He was in good health and the idea of temporary or sudden insanity is scouted. If he is not the victim of foul play he has been induced to leave his home through some mysterious agency. A thorough search of the premises will be made first, and if his body or a clue to his whereabouts be not found, a search will be made in nearby cities, police in all the large cities in the country have been placed in possession of the facts and a great effort made to find him.

FROM 148 TO 92 POUNDS.

One of the most remarkable cases of a cold, deep-seated on the lungs, causing pneumonia, is that of Mrs. Gertrude E. Fenner, Marion, Ind., who was entirely cured by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. She says: "The coughing and straining so weakened me that I ran down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength." Sold by Bowers & Comstock.

HEAD-ON COLLISION.

Two C. H. & D. Passenger Trains Collide on Terminal R. R.

Monday morning at 10:15 two C. H. & D. passenger trains came together on the Terminal railway near Ironville.

It was a head-on collision between No. 2 and No. 5 and seven people were more or less seriously injured, and scores were bruised and badly shaken up.

Those who were injured are: Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Furgeson, Gibsonburg badly bruised.

C. C. Stiber, Cincinnati, left knee injured.

H. H. Duhl, Grand Rapids, O., injuries about the head.

Kate Wehl, Grand Rapids, O.

Mr. and Mrs. Hotchkiss, Custar, O.

The hospital physicians reports that none of the injuries are serious.

The two trains came together with such force as to completely telescope the engines and it is a great wonder that there was no loss of life. Besides reducing the engines to scrap iron, the baggage coaches on both trains and the smoker of No. 2 was completely wrecked.

Concerning the wreck the Blade says:

There is a curve at the bridge over Duck creek and each engineer saw the other train long before the trains came together. Shutting the throttle they blew danger signals, shouted to their fireman and jumped from the train, down an embankment, a distance of fifteen or twenty feet, but, fortunately, into soft gravel and sand. Rear end trainmen and the occupants of the baggage cars heard the warnings and also jumped in time to save themselves.

Train No. 2 was in charge of William Heisterman, conductor; Charles Long, engineer, and Fireman Shepherd. The conductor was a Hamilton man, and the engineer and fireman both from Lima. Both the head-end men were bruised and dazed, from the long jump which they took, and were not able to tell very coherently how the wreck came about. Shepherd was taken home by Dr. Heath, who dressed his cuts.

Moses Tyler was engineer and Ernest Dysinger, fireman on train No. 5, and R. A. Gilmore was the conductor. These men were none of them so seriously injured as the crew on the other train, since the one on which they were, was running at a much slower rate of speed, having just crossed the bridge. The incoming train, however, was taking it at a pretty good clip.

No. 5 was a south-bound train for Cincinnati, and leaves the Terminal station at 10:10 o'clock. The smash-up came about fifteen minutes later. No. 2 was just pulling into the station, having come from Cincinnati. Both trains carried from forty to fifty passengers.

Since the establishment of the C. H. & D. service from the Terminal station, when the trains are on time at the terminals, no orders are issued by a dispatcher, but the crews of the trains are furnished cards, showing the passing points, printed in bold-face type, and each train crew had those cards. The passing point was at the Consaul street siding, and according to instructions, Train No. 2, coming in from Cincinnati, which reached this siding first, should have waited for the outgoing train. No. 2 took the siding, when the conductor gave orders to the engineer to proceed. The engineer objected, but was finally prevailed upon to go on, after telling the conductor that he the conductor, must accept all risk. In addition to the time printed on the train cards, there is a strict rule to the trainmen in reference to the passing points.—(Continued on Eighth Page.)

A POWER FOR GOOD.

The pills that are potent in their action and pleasant in effect are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. W. S. Philpot of Albany, Ga., says: "During a bilious attack I took one. Small as it was it did me more good than calomel, blue mass or any other pill I ever took and at the same time the effect was pleasant. Little Early Risers are certainly an ideal pill." Sold by Bowers & Comstock.

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE

Authorized Chairman to Fill Vacancies on Committee.

On Saturday morning the Republican Central committee met at the court house for the purpose of perfecting arrangements for the fall campaign work.

The principal business was to authorize Chairman Painter to fill all vacancies on the committee which will be caused by the making of new precincts by the county election board as authorized under the Hypes law.

Twenty-eight members of the committee were present. Squire Cook of Perrysburg moved that the Chairman be authorized to fill the vacancies by appointment. J. E. Kelley moved to amend by leaving the matter to the caucuses of the various precincts.

After considerable discussion the amendment was voted down and the original motion prevailed.

The poll books were distributed and other matters discussed.

There will be twenty-one new precincts in which committeemen will be appointed, the new election law requiring that all municipal corporations be precincts in themselves, separate from the surrounding country.

THE W. O. W. DRUM CORPS.

Perrysburg has another band which the members declare has come to stay. The W. O. W. Drum corps has been doing considerable practicing lately and are becoming quite proficient in their work.

THE PHILIPPINE EXHIBIT

One of the Most Interesting of the Great World's Fair.

About the time the World's Fair City is waking at early morning, one hundred bare-limbed Igorot often sacrifice and eat a dog on the Philippine reservation. At the same hour, scarcely two hundred yards away, a bugle sounds reveille, and four hundred well-trained soldiers in the blue of the United States Army hustle from their tents. These are the Philippine Scouts. The yells of the dog-dance have scarcely ceased before the blue line is formed for roll call, and the Philippine soldiers stand at attention beneath an American flag, while a Philippine band plays an American air. All of these people live on the same island in the Philippines. The Igorot represent the wildest race of savages, the scouts stand for the results of American rule—extremes of the social order in the islands.

The Exposition is the first comprehensive display of the Filipinos, their work and habits, made in the United States. It covers forty-seven acres of rolling woodland in the extreme western part of the World's Fair grounds.

Agriculture of the Islands.

Probably in no other building are the wonderful resources of the Philippines so forcibly demonstrated as that in which the agricultural display is made. This is a wide structure of bamboo and nipa, with artistic entrances on either side. From the center protrudes a conservatory, an immense bay window, with which are hung the orchids of the islands. Hemp, the principle product of the Philippines, forms in all its stages of growth and treatment the chief exhibit. Last year the crop was worth twenty million dollars. It is not generally known that this Manila hemp is one of the species of the wild banana plant.

From the rafters trail long white festoons of hemp almost as fine as unspun silk. When it is realized that so little machinery is used in the culture of Manila hemp and in the rope making from it, this exhibit is all the more striking.

The heavy wooden combs used for refining the fiber are shown, and near by are the clumsy bull carts with heavy wooden wheels for transporting this material from the rural districts into the towns, where it is twisted into the unsurpassed ropes. Hemp, however, is not the only fiber used for cordage, for large exhibits of ropes are shown made from the fiber of the coconut, maguey, obtained from the leaf of the century plant, bamboo, and even rattan. The plows, of which there are a number of varieties, indicate that the Filipinos yet have the most primitive agricultural methods. These native plows have only one handle, and shares molded in stone molds are fastened to heavy timber. They are drawn generally by the water-buffaloes, sometimes by the natives themselves, and make only narrow and shallow furrows. It is believed that modern agricultural methods will be rapidly promulgated in the islands by the agricultural experiment stations. There are three hundred different varieties of rice shown.

The honey and beeswax exhibit is produced by wild bees and is gathered in the forests by the natives. Domesticated bees are not known in the Philippine islands, and the combs of the wild ones are built on the branches, not in hollow trees, as in America. The natives use this wax principally in the manufacture of church tapers.

Peculiar to the Philippines is the cotton tree, frequently sixty feet in height from which a strange material called "tree cotton" is gathered, used by the natives for filling pillows. It is believed that, with proper care, the tobacco of the islands may be produced equal in fragrance and superior in some features to the Cuban variety.

Far more impressive than the display of the weapons of the Filipinos or their implements in the Ethnological Building, are the natives themselves. They are grouped in tribes about the reservation.

Would you see how the famous hats of the Philippines are made? Do you care to watch the natives carving wood? Have you any desire to see the women combing out long strands of pineapple fiber, and making the most beautiful cloth on hand
